

Conditioning him to associate things with frustration/fear?

BARK, LUNGE, pull forward, interested. Wants to see object.

In the presence of these items, if you react something like this?

Yell, yank the leash, shout "No" in the presence of these things - He will build a negative association with them..

Your dog is going to start learning to react to avoid the bad outcome

Every time he sees them it hurts & you shout. It is very scary. He wants to avoid this. SO! NOW he lunges, growls etc to make them go away.

Because of your reactions, he now ups his game to avoid the pain. This is how bites, lunging and other unwanted behaviours develop.

"SNARL, SNAP" GO AWAY OR I WILL BITE!
